ATPCR Accreditation Route For Your Students

“Our coach/mentor training course is accredited by the IAPC&M, the only coach and mentor accreditation body approved by the British Industry Ombudsman and also registered with the American Ombudsman.

Please note: this accreditation applies to the course itself, not to individual participants. To gain personal accreditation, you must apply separately via the IAPC&M.

Because we have invested in having our course independently accredited by the IAPC&M, you benefit from a fast-track application process and a reduced fee if you choose to apply for your own personal accreditation status with them.

Accreditation is a higher-level recognition than certification. While certification confirms course completion, accreditation involves having your professional evidence portfolio independently assessed against IAPC&M’s professional standards. This added level of rigour is increasingly valued by clients worldwide as a way to identify trusted, best-in-class practitioners.

If you wish to be recognised as a TQA Coach (Trained, Qualified, and Accredited) and appear on the IAPC&M international directory, you can apply directly here.”
